Medical Association Seeks Liability Protection during COVID Crisis

Physicians and all frontline healthcare workers need some clear heightened liability protections in order to be free to respond better to the healthcare emergency. The Medical Association of the State of Alabama, the Alabama Hospital Association, and the Alabama Nursing Home Association have drafted a proposed Executive Order for the Governor to consider that will provide broader liability protection to healthcare providers who are responding to the healthcare emergency. The proposed executive order is supplemental to all other executive orders and is based upon the declared state emergency and would provide clear protection for physicians and healthcare professionals by raising the standard of proof for a case brought against a physician. The issues addressed in the proposed Executive Order are as follows:

1. Physicians and their staff are included. The proposal provides a broad definition of "health care provider" that includes physicians, their practices, and their office staff in the limited immunity. This will protect physicians and their office staff.

2. All healthcare providers, as broadly defined, are covered unless they act willfully, maliciously, fraudulently or in bad faith. The proposal provides clear limited immunity and then provides the backstop of the current AMLA protection.

3. The proposal provides protection for civil and criminal violations, During the term of the declared emergency, lines may be blurred, and as long as the healthcare worker is not acting willfully or in bad faith, he or she will be protected from both civil and criminal violations.

4. Any actions in furtherance of the emergency declaration are covered, A physician is protected when he or she reschedules a procedure he or she in good faith believes is elective and is attempting to comply with previous executive orders.

Doctors Struggle to Pay Bills in Pandemic and Telemedicine isn’t Saving Them
As the economic shutdown wallops small businesses in nearly every sector, healthcare providers haven't been immune. They face a double whammy: A drastic decrease in patient volume and a decrease in the amount of money insurance is willing to reimburse for the one thing that's been heralded as the future of healthcare: telemedicine.

Ask CMS to Expand Telehealth Options

The increased use of telehealth during the COVID-19 pandemic is critical to maintain as much access to care as possible for patients while appropriately practicing social distancing. At present, CMS’s current telehealth policy for Medicare patients falls far short of achieving these goals.

During this unprecedented health emergency, the Medical Association is asking CMS to amend its telehealth policy beyond what they have already done to allow better use of telephone visits.

PPE Supply Source

The Medical Association has been working with Jason Allman who is a practice administrator in Huntsville and has potentially found a source for much-needed PPE. In working with the Medical Association, Jason has offered to open his source up to physicians across the state who are in need.

Below is a letter from Jason to the medical community that he has asked us to share:

Dear Medical Community,

I am writing today to inform you there is some light at the end of the tunnel. Like many of your practices and facilities, we have been struggling to get basic necessities in order to treat our patients safely. Items like masks, hand sanitizer, gowns, gloves, etc. Today, I am excited to inform you we have found a source for various medical supplies. If you are in need of supplies I will be happy to add you to our order.
Simply email me a list of supplies and quantities you are looking for and I will reply promptly. Also, if you would like to speak with someone about your questions or concerns then add your contact name and direct number where you can be reached and we will call you back.

Please contact me by email only.

Stay safe and good luck.

Sincerely,

Jason Allman
Administrator

However, it has no indirect or direct business or financial relationship with Mr. Allman or any others in the production or supply chain. The Medical Association makes no representation about, and is not responsible for, the quality of the goods or PPE provided and encourages physicians interested in PPE to discuss these issues when ordering.
